

EDITORIAL OFFICERS

◀◀◀ Katie White & Jason Murphy ▶▶▶▶

Hello! We are Jason and Katie, two Level 5 Graphic Design students running to be your Editorial Officers! NEST is a publication run by students, for the students and we want to continue to promote all of the talent that the Leeds Arts student body has.

We love what the previous editors have done with the publication and we believe we have the skillset to continue developing its reputation, taking it to the next level.

We are both experienced in publication and editorial design, as it is a central part of both of our practices. We've collaborated with other young creatives on publications and want to collaborate with other creatives to create a platform that celebrates growth. During the pandemic we have also come to realise the importance of virtual environments, therefore we hope to develop NEST's online presence so that it can be reached no matter where you are in the world.

We will:

Continue to develop NEST's great reputation, expand and promote NEST Unseen, increase NEST's social media presence, take environmental factors into consideration, provide commission opportunities, continuing the existing paid opportunity to create a print alongside each issue, create content that is visually appealing and mentally stimulating & involve a large number of students in the creative process.

We want:

Increased distribution into more online and physical shops, student-led social media takeovers, to provide opportunities for talks and interviews with students, alumni and industry figures, COVID-safe launch parties on Zoom (hopefully in person if regulations allow), space at the University to show off submissions, more collaboration, encouraging submissions from variety of courses & to expand NEST past publication, into other mediums such as stickers and merchandise.
