

STUDENT PRESIDENT

Rozie Brindle

Hey! I'm Rozie, a Visual Communications student in my final year. My personal practise is mainly illustration based and I love creating diverse and positive characters. I try to incorporate sustainability within my work and at home, although this can be a lot to take on at times. I'm passionate about diversity, networking, sexual health, organisation, budgeting and cooking. I hope to create a stronger and more inclusive student union, that has connections all around the city. I really hope you support my campaign <3

Here are my main 3 points I'll be focusing on within my manifesto:

Stronger connections

As someone who volunteers at the arts hub Leftbank, I know the importance of making connections with other people and places around the city. I would like to set up more events, exhibitions and workshops in collaboration with the creative spaces around Leeds. Allowing us to catch up on the time we missed during the pandemic! This should help students make new friends, allow celebration of work and overall show students what's out there.

Inclusivity and representation

Within the university we have such a diverse range of students and all should be represented and understood. I want to create workshops around how to represent different groups within your artwork and how to make students' different practices as inclusive as possible. I want to work alongside International, Spectrum, Afro-Caribbean and Islamic societies to better represent everyone's voices within the union.

Sustainability

The idea of sustainability is really overwhelming at first, it isn't only important within university but at home as well. I want to create a section on the union's weekly emails about sustainability, for the students that want to incorporate this into their lives. Sharing things like where to buy materials, recipes, health products and much more.
